

Joyceen S. Boyle,
PhD, RN, FAAN

Adjunct Professor, College of Nursing, University of Arizona
Tucson, AZ

Adjunct Professor, College of Nursing, Georgia Health
Sciences University, Augusta,
GA

Place of Employment: Retired

E-mail:
jboyle@nursing.arizona.edu

Expertise Areas

Transcultural Topics

- International Health
- Women's Health
- Transcultural Health Care
- Cultural Theories and Models

Cultural Groups

- Hispanic-Mexican
- Guatemalan-Ladino and Maya
- Middle Eastern
- African American
- Native American

Clinical Topics

- Public Health/Community Nursing
- Transcultural Nursing
- International Health
- Women's Health
- Immigrant/Refugee Health

Research Methodology

- Qualitative methods
- Ethnography
- Discourse Analysis
- Historical methods

Languages spoken

- English
- Spanish

Select Publications

Book

Andrews, M. M. & Boyle, J. S. (Eds). (2012). Transcultural Concepts in Nursing Care, (6th ed.). Philadelphia: PA: Wolters Kluwer/Lippincott Williams & Wilkins.

Journal Articles

Lori, J. & Boyle, J. S. (2011). Cultural childbirth practices, beliefs and traditions in post conflict Liberia. Health Care for Women International, 32(6), 1-20.

Al-Dami, H.L. & Boyle, J. S. (2012). Nursing in Iraq: Challenges for the profession. Journal of Transcultural Nursing, 23(2), 166-172.

McGuire, S. & Boyle, J. S. (2008). The Elephant in the room: Critical reflections on militarism, war and their health contingencies. Advances in Nursing Science, 31(2), 128-138.

Shambley-Ebron, D. & Boyle, J.S. (2006). Self-Care and the cultural meaning of mothering in African American women with HIV/AIDS. Western Journal of Nursing Research, 28: 42-60.