

Transcultural Nursing Society

Strategic Plan 2019-2024

Annual Statement 2022

Who We Are

Transcultural Nursing is a theory-based, humanistic discipline designed to serve individuals, organizations, communities, and societies. Human care/caring is defined within the context of culture. Culturally competent care can only occur when culture care values are known and serve as the foundation for meaningful care. Scholarship is the foundation of the discipline of Transcultural Nursing. Advanced educational preparation in Transcultural Nursing enhances the practice of culturally competent care. Certification documents evidence of the ability to provide culturally competent care.

The Transcultural Nursing Society (TCNS) is a nonprofit, international membership organization made up of approximately 550-600 individuals located in the United States and throughout the world. These individuals come together across interest areas to work on issues of common concern to all. TCNS members represent geographic diversity and a wide range of health care areas. Nonprofit organizations accomplish their missions for a healthy, cooperative, and just society. To achieve our Vision, the TCNS requires a stable financial base.

Our Vision

The Transcultural Nursing Society seeks to provide nurses and other health care professionals with the knowledge base necessary to ensure cultural competence in practice, education, research, and administration.

Our Mission

The mission of the Transcultural Nursing Society is to enhance the quality of culturally congruent, competent, and equitable care that results in improved health and well-being for people worldwide.

Our Programs and Services

To achieve our mission, Transcultural Nursing Society programs and services focus on:

- Education, certification, and professional development for nurses and healthcare professionals.
- Dissemination of research and evidence-based practice through the Journal of Transcultural Nursing.
- Advocacy through education in practice, education, research, and administration.
- Public policy education and civic engagement.
- Partnerships to disseminate research, education, practice, and administration to further culturally competent, congruent healthcare for all people.
- Advocacy at local, state and federal levels.
- Creating and maintaining relationships among organizations to increase knowledge, effectiveness, and capacity for collective action.
- Building bridges between nonprofit organizations and key institutions (business, local government, philanthropy, etc.) to increase partnerships and cooperation.
- Increasing opportunities for cost-saving programs, shared services, and shared spaces.
- Strengthening nonprofit healthcare engagement.
- Increasing applications for Transcultural Nursing Society Research Scholarship and Awards.

Our Goals

To accomplish our mission, the Transcultural Nursing Society goals are to:

- Advance cultural competence for nurses/healthcare providers worldwide.
- Advance the scholarship (substantive knowledge) of the discipline.
- Develop strategies for advocating social change for culturally competent care.
- Promote a sound financial, nonprofit corporation.

Background and Context

Nonprofit organizations have many challenges and opportunities. The Transcultural Nursing Society (TCNS) embarked on a new strategic planning process starting in 2008. This process was done to address the increased challenges and regulation of nonprofit organizations. TCNS seeks to address the challenges and create a stable nonprofit organization. Eighty percent (80%) of nonprofit organizations fail, and this continues to increase as new regulations, put in place in 2008 with required implementation by 2010, have been challenging nonprofit organizations both large and small. The Board of Trustees developed a strategic plan to address the new requirements and incorporate the TCNS Operations in a central role to help move the TCNS into this new operating environment. While several elements of this strategic plan address immediate economic conditions, the plan overall is designed to ensure that the Transcultural Nursing Society is well prepared for what comes next. Transcultural Nursing Society understands that in today's environment nonprofit organization boards and managers are under great pressure to make timely, strategic decisions about their operations – and require up-to-date information as they make plans to be as successful as possible under the circumstances. Throughout this plan, you will see reference to how TCNS provides the information, resources, and support that it needs to manage and lead effectively.

Transcultural Nursing Society organizational competencies are to:

- Provide timely, relevant, and accessible education and training and educational offerings in the field of culturally competent, equitable healthcare for all people.
- Manage resources and support that nonprofit organizations need to lead their organization effectively.
- Build the capacity of the Transcultural Nursing Society to be their own best voice.
- Build the capacity of leaders to be confident and competent voices on issues that impact their members and communities by providing them with conferences, research, and other resources.
- Increases the ability of the organization to be involved in nonpartisan civic engagement activities with information and resources targeted to 501(c)(3) nonprofit organizations.
- Draw upon the expertise and knowledge of its network of members and organizations to facilitate resources development.
- Develop an infrastructure to support adequate staffing and organizational needs moving into the future to create an organization that is self-supporting and meets the benchmarks for a stable nonprofit organization into the future.
